

WELL!!! IT WAS about time we had the "Fun in the Sun" weekend that Carmel Valley has been waiting for. Saturday and Sunday, the traffic in the river was of higher density than on Carmel Valley Road. Wouldn't it be great if we could keep it this way all the time... a four lane river?

Fiesta to dove-tail with Trail-Saddle Club Labor Day weekend

Delegates from many Valley organizations who make up the Board of Directors for Fiesta de los Amigos gathered at Rippling River Resort Friday to welcome Sam Brandt as their newly recruited chairman.

Attorney Rex Pryer explained that by-laws should be drawn up to legalize the Fiesta charter that has been signed by the delegates. It was decided that Brandt would meet with Assistant Chairman Mrs. Bill Norton, Secretary Mrs. Harvey Deal and Pryer for this purpose.

It was determined that Fiesta activities would not hinder Trail and Saddle Club plans for its annual Horse Show Sept. 1 and 2, but would dove-tail with Horse Show activities; both activities to be promoted as a two-day event in the Valley.

Mrs. Olene Dick, chairman of last year's Fiesta, will serve as advisor to the Board and Mrs. Tom Bottaro will handle publicity.

Tom Hefling is treasurer.

Others present were Mrs. Irwin Johnson, Mrs. Mark Hattan, Mrs. Larry Busick, Mrs. G.H. Katzman, Mrs. Glen Low, Mrs. Hiram Bishop, Mrs. Clarence Fairchild, Mrs. Vera Stokes, Mrs. Paul Anthony, Chip Collins, Bob Angell, Carl Maser, Doyt Early and Ken Van Hagen.

Noto requests continuance of new use permit for Schulte Rd. hospital

Dr. Joseph Noto has requested a six-month continuance of his application for a new use permit for his Schulte Road convalescent hospital, and promised that he would try to have all the problems regarding sewage, water and traffic solved at that time.

The continuance was unanimously granted by the Planning Commission and set for Nov. 29.

His statement came after a three-man PlanCom committee reported negatively on his request. Dr. Ed Marcucci, Leon Stutzman, and Keith Evans were members of the recommendation committee.

Several new points substantiating the refusal were brought out by Bruce McClain, road commissioner. McClain said the original application for 80 beds kept within the approvable bounds of the department's traffic survey. The increased traffic of the second request for 160 bed facility would generate more than double the traffic of a normal K zone, and the latest application for the new use permit with 160 rooms plus 20 visitors would bring in three to four times the traffic.

A letter from the CVPOA reaffirmed its stand against the hospital on the basis of sewage disposal, flooding, traffic congestion and conflict with the CV Master Plan.

Opposition expressed to 'G' zoning in Valley

Planning Commissioner Keith Evans commented again last week regarding "G" zoning in Carmel Valley.

The matter was in reference to Dr. Joseph Noto's request for a new use permit for a convalescent hospital on 16 acres on Schulte Road.

Evans said, "We do not feel this is a suitable area for this sort of use, but as long as we have a "G" zone in Carmel Valley, we are going to have proposals such as this coming before us on 10-acre parcels."

(Uses such as hospital, rest home, resorts, research laboratories, clinics, and executive business offices are permissible in a KGB4 residential zone on 10 acres or more with a use permit.)

As a direct shot-in-the-arm to Evans' remarks, the following letter was sent from Edwin Lee, president of the Mid-Valley Property Owners Association to the Planning Commission:

"Pressures have increased in recent years to develop portions of Carmel Valley in ways which will increase both the population densities in some areas and the total population beyond that contemplated by the Carmel Valley Master Plan. As has been pointed out by members of the Planning Commission, this pressure is encouraged by the existence of the "G" District zoning throughout much of the Valley.

"The Board of Directors of the Mid Carmel Valley Property Owners Association urges the Planning Commission to begin action to remove much of the present "G" District zoning.

"We believe that if there is any valid reason for commercial zoning beyond that presently designated, which is more than adequate to serve the Carmel Valley as outlined in the Master Plan, then the additional zoning should be near the existing commercially-zoned property. We therefore recommend that the "G" Districts, if deemed necessary, be retained only for property contiguous to the present commercial zones designated on the Master Plan. "Further, such "G" Districts should extend outward for a limited distance, say 250 yards, from the boundaries of the commercial areas and act as a buffer zone to the primary rural residential areas which should comprise most of the Valley.

"Within these "G" Districts the Planning Commission should continue to exercise discretionary control and approval, being guided by the specification and intent of the Carmel Valley Master Plan "to preserve the rural character and native beauty of the Carmel Valley."

"It is urged that the Planning Commission arrange a meeting with representatives of the various property owners' associations to determine if there is general agreement with the proposed change in zoning. If majority agreement exists the rezoning should be accomplished without delay."

CV Chamber gets foreign queries

Queries from Brazil, Germany, England and Vietnam were among the 47 to Carmel Valley Chamber of Commerce answered during March and April.

This was announced by Mrs. Rae Black, secretary, at the May meeting of directors Wednesday noon at Los Laureles Lodge.

Program for the June meeting will be on sewer possibilities for the Valley. Tom Hefling will review a study on the subject made last year by the CVPOA and the CC.

Hefling reported 69 paid-up members in the Chamber, which has a balance of $937 in the treasury.

Manager Claude Hicks of the Carmel PG&E office reported progress on sign-ups for the proposed natural gas extension to the Upper Valley. He pointed out that PG&E will convert orifices of appliances from butane to natural gas use without charge.

YOU WOULD THINK they didn't see each other every day the way conversation flowed at the faculty party for Tularcitos principal Bill Mallek. Bill (center) and Peggy Mervine, science teacher, were talking to Dr. and Mrs. Harris Taylor, seated across the table.

Principal Mallek is honored at Tularcitos faculty dinner

Bill Mallek, who has been principal of Tularcitos School for the past nine years, was honored last week at a dinner-dance given by the Tularcitos faculty. Bill is leaving at the end of the school year and will be going back to school himself, attending University of Oregon.

Guests at the gala party, held at the Elks Club, included the Tularcitos faculty and staff, the Carmelo faculty (Bill was principal there in 1958 and '64), Dr. and Mrs. Harris Taylor and members of the Board of Education, principals of all the CUSD schools, and executive board members of the Tularcitos Parents Club... plus spouses.

Floral arrangements on the tables were of daisy and genista, held by silk-screened ducks (mascot of U. of Oregon), in the University colors, lemon and green. Zane Spieser's Art Club at Seaside High School designed and made the original mascots.

On the morning of the party, Tularcitos personnel attended a "mock faculty meeting," with a "Farewell Agenda" for Bill. Third-fourth grade teacher Fred Pomeroy conducted the meeting and presented him with a portable transistor radio.

"MEET THE AUTHOR" party to visit with Ann Fairbairn, author of the national best-seller, "Five Smooth Stones," will be held at the Thunderbird Bookshop on Saturday from 3-5.

A costly school bill

A bill in the state legislature, if passed, would be very costly to the Carmel Unified School District.

Its aim is further equalization of school district income. Variations of this have been in effect for some years, allocating state funds to poor districts according to need. With the aid of state money, mushrooming areas with low assessed valuation have been able to build needed buildings to keep up with the growth.

This is fair enough—but proposals in Unruh-Miller Bill AB 272 are unfair and illogical. Among other things, this bill would kill the 37¢ tax override just approved by Carmel District voters.

With its high assessed valuation, the Carmel District hasn't received such state aid. But it is illogical and unfair to be penalized, in addition to standing on our own financial feet, as proposed by Unruh-Miller AB 272!

Theory of the bill is to force the reduction of property taxes—a fine idea, if state funds would then come along to compensate. But they won't in a rich district like Carmel's because of the equalization policy.

Worse, the bill would abrogate the recently-approved override tax, unless it would be approved again by the voters. But even if the override were approved again in a second election, it couldn't become effective until July 1, 1968. And so the Carmel District would lose a full year's revenue, in any case, scheduled from the tax.

Walter Hinton, business manager of Carmel School District, estimates the bill would cost the district $385,000 a year.

This is some $35,000 more than the income anticipated from the tax override, because various special taxes would also be killed by the bill. Repealed would be the Carmel District's 7¢ "community service" tax which pays for recreation programs and pupil supervision during lunch periods, the 4¢ tax which finances adult education and 4.1¢ for "7th and 8th grade tuition excess."

The Unruh-Miller proposals wouldn't be so objectionable if the Carmel District would receive a compensating share of the 1¢ sales tax increase which is being proposed for school purposes. But districts like Carmel, although they would pay more than their share of the proposed sales tax increase, aren't to be cut in on any of the income.

Letters to your state representatives are needed now to protest this serious threat, particularly to the tax override.

PERSPECTIVE

The Rhyming Philosopher

How inconsistently the poet sings
Of some idyllic love which dulls the mind
When time dissolves the lure, and so it brings
Catastrophe when reason's left behind

How sweetly now at e'en the sparrow twit
As each his nightly roosting place proclaims.
Unlike his human friend, with shallow wit
He sleeps alone, deserted by the dames.

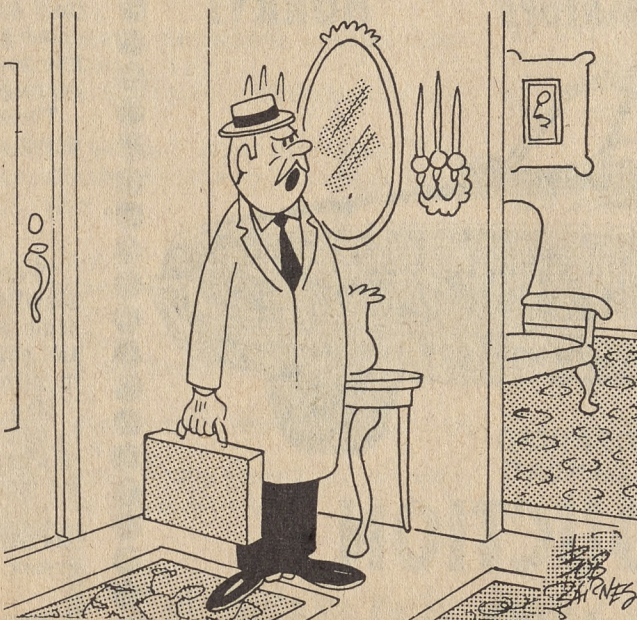

How ludicrous appears the gander's goose
Who has no voice when lullabies are sung;
Yet, later on, accepts no bland excuse
And makes the pompous gander guard the young.

The bee, they say, is something else again,
Where males must share one wife, one common queen.
Their code decrees; enjoy yourselves and then
A one-way ticket ends the hive's routine.

Consider man, though neither bird nor bee,
This captain of his soul considers lost
Each day devoid of eminence,
But winds up like the rest by woman bossed.

IN SHORT

THE RECENT RASH of reports of unidentified flying objects over Carmel Valley appears to be traceable to some form of balloons that kids are sending aloft with candles or some other form of illumination attached.

Several residents have reported seeing the glowing objects over Robles del Rio.

Harper and Eve Brown reported a possible UFO about 9:30 p.m. last Monday over Carmel. It floated along with a pulsating yellow glow, then dipped suddenly from sight.

A group of students from Carmel Middle School reported seeing an elliptical silver object which floated and darted out of sight in broad daylight last week. Not an airplane... not a weather balloon... was this a UFO?

An Outlook employee reported another nighttime incident of a shape with green lights on it which was being paced by an airplane. The object, and then the plane, veered off in opposite directions.

Are we being scrutinized or not?

THE ANONYMOUS Carmel Valley resident who spearheaded the "Scrooge" Christmas donations to the county farm and boys' camp, needs a used but workable typewriter for the same project. He collected thousands of records, a number of record players, and provided adults with cigarettes during the holiday season.

Anyone able to provide the needed typewriter may call the Outlook office and we will relay the message to "Scrooge."

FISH AND GAME law violations cost 333 persons $8,393 last month in the central coastal area from southern San Luis Obispo County to northern Mendocino County, according to the Dept. of Fish and Game.

In addition to these fines, offenders served 217 days in jail.

Angling without a license was the most common offense, and 143 persons paid fines in March for failure to have a license in their possession or for not having the proper stamps.

SCHOOL NOTES

Local teacher heads county reading group

Monterey County has become a charter member of IRA (International Reading Association) and Jo Brazell, English teacher at Carmel Middle School, has become the first president of the county chapter.

Membership in IRA is open to reading teachers, educators and parents. Miss Brazell said that she has been thrilled at the number of parents who have expressed an interest and have joined.

The purpose of the organization is to be able to study the problems, strengths and innovations in reading. However, another very important facet is to exert some influence over the selection of reading tests by the state.

Miss Brazell has been having rewarding results in the use of new teaching methods in reading. One of her classes in Middle School is a speed reading group, which concentrates not only on rapidity, but comprehension. Recently, she has been working with the top readers and those needing remedial work on a one-to-one basis with great success.

With Monterey County a member of IRA, leaders in the field of reading will be coming to the area for discussion meetings with teachers and parents who are members.

The Doctor says:

by Dr. James Short

(Write or phone your health questions to Dr. James Short, 103 Robles del Rio, Carmel Valley; telephone 659-4223.)

GOUT — A COMMON DISEASE

Recently, a prominent surgeon on the Monterey Peninsula phoned to report that during the previous night he had been awakened by an excruciating pain in the great toe of his right foot. He said the area was much swollen, red, and extremely tender to the touch. The evening before his foot had been normal.

What had happened? He himself made the correct diagnosis—gout. This had been confirmed by finding high uric acid in the blood serum and by X-rays, and he called to ask my advice as to management. He mentioned that his father had had the condition in his later years.

It is fortunate that the diagnosis had been made immediately in this case. Almost any doctor would have spotted it under the circumstances—a man in his fifties, somewhat overweight, but above all having a severe, painful swelling in the great toe coming on in the middle of the night.

But suppose it had come on gradually in the shoulder or elsewhere during the daytime and had progressed slowly to a severe incapacitation? Would gout have been under suspicion, or would it have been called a "strain" or "arthritis" of undetermined origin? There is about a 50-50 chance that the correct diagnosis would not have been made and the victim would have suffered indefinitely. Why?

The impression exists among most doctors that gout is a rare condition, largely of historical interest, since so many of the royal family of Europe had it in past centuries. Then, too, isn't the patient always a high liver given to alcohol and rich foods? And doesn't gout nearly always come on in the night with pain and swelling in the great toe?

If these conditions are not present, chances are that diagnosis will be missed in many cases, and without a correct diagnosis proper treatment is not instituted.

That gout comes on in later life is generally true. That it is due to gluttony and alcoholism is false. Diet has little to do with it, but heredity is very important.

It is classified as belonging to a group of diseases known as the "Inborn Errors of Metabolism." A patient, therefore, has as little to do with it as he has to do with the color of his eyes. It may attack any structure in the body—the joints, the tendons, the muscles, even the heart.

About 5% of all cases of arthritis are due to gout. It occurs almost entirely in men, which suggests that estrogens (the female sex hormone) may act somehow to prevent it in females.

The body has no way to destroy excess uric acid. This means that excess amounts must be excreted through the kidney. For years there has been a controversy among scientists as to whether gout (due to excessive uric acid in the blood) was due to overproduction of uric acid or to an abnormally low excretion. The present view is that either one or both factors may be involved.

In any event, too much uric acid accumulates in the blood and body fluids until a crystal forms in some structure. This acts like a foreign body and feels like some refined method of torture of medieval times.

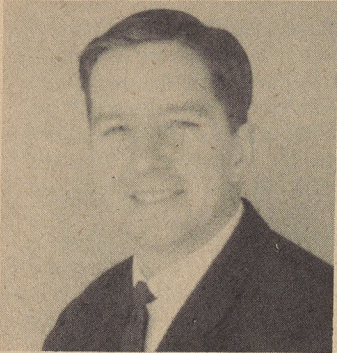

Treatment

In olden times, kings, dukes, and other noblemen spent much of their time laid up with gout. Descriptions depict them as having feet elevated on a footstool for weeks on end. Dispositions were said to suffer from the nagging pain, which is no surprise to anyone who has had an attack.

Colchicum, a plant product, is said to have been used in treatment as early as the sixth century, A.D., and a refined extractive, colchicine, is still used, even though its specific action in gout is not yet understood.

Other more recent remedies such as Zylprim, Butaxolitin, and Benemid have been developed. Properly used, these may abort the acute attack and future attacks can be prevented or diminished in number and severity.

Diet? Yes; don't eat liver, brains, or sweetbreads. Otherwise it is not of great importance. The important factor in treatment is a prompt and proper diagnosis.

Featuring the favorite recipes of local cooks.

JACK and BETTY GRANOFF are both instinctively good cooks who are generous about passing along ideas for serving some of the foods they love.

These may take some experimenting to carry out successfully but are well worth the effort for the woman who takes pride in treating her family and friends to something out-of-the-ordinary now and then.

The Granoffs came to the Valley from Southern California ten years ago this spring and are happily established on Rancho Road with Tasha (a Tularcitos student) Greg and Peter (Middle School) and Tania (Carmel High).

We can imagine the Granoff children watching their mother cook, just as she did when she learned to "put up" the figs she calls appropriately:

MAMA'S PRESERVED FIGS

Cover the bottom of a large kettle with a layer of peeled whole Kadota figs. Cover figs with three times as much sugar as water. (You will have to figure this out according to the size of your kettle.) Add one half lemon, thinly sliced, and three pieces of whole dried ginger. Bring to a boil slowly and keep at slow boil for from five to ten minutes. Take from fire and cool. Cover and let stand overnight. Repeat two more times. Put in hot sterile jars and seal.

These make an elegant winter dessert served ice cold in their syrup in champagne glasses with sour cream.

ADVICE FOR APPLESAUCE MAKERS (Astrachan apples)

These superbly flavored cooking apples are grown around Watsonville and, as they don't travel well, are never found far from home and consequently are little known. But each year in late June and early July they can be found at Wolters Market and at Mead's in Monterey.

Mrs. Granoff says they are well worth enquiring for and ordering to can. She says that one of the Wolter brothers told her this apple was brought to California by Russian settlers and is one of the parent stocks of the popular Gravenstein.

Sauce made from astrachans makes a "divine dessert" Betty says. She serves it for winter parties in tall iced glasses with heavy sweet cream.

Here is Mr. Granoff's recipe for a Greek caviar appetizer that he remembers his father making in Odessa where he was born and raised. The colorful and cosmopolitan port city was familiar with good things from Greece and the salty strong flavored caviar was a favorite of his father who used to put it, and the other ingredients necessary to dilute the flavor, laboriously through a sieve.

When Jack Granoff came across the same product in a San Francisco shop, he had a chat with the Greek proprietor and learned his method of preparing it which is considerably simpler but has the same good results.

TARAMA

This strongly-flavored orange-colored caviar from Greece makes a beautiful apricot-colored spread for crackers, stuffing for celery, or a dip with chips when mixed with the following ingredients:

3 to 4 slices of white bread	1 medium onion, finely grated or
1/3 to 1/2 cup olive oil	whirled in a blender
1/3 cup vinegar	1 6 oz. jar of Tarama
juice of a lemon

Remove crusts from bread, dip in water and squeeze out immediately. Put in electric mixer with juice, onion and Tarama. Mix together, adding oil and vinegar alternately until consistency is creamy.

Makes at least a pint and will keep for a month in the refrigerator.

CVYO Movie: 'Invaders from Mars'

5/20: "INVADERS FROM MARS" Jimmy, age 11, is an amateur astronomer. One stormy night he witnesses the landing of a strange space ship. Using the most fantastic weapon ever conceived, the Martian invaders begin to enslave the Earth. These films proved to be very popular with our audiences, of ALL ages but especially recommended for the older children, although recommended by the National Legion of Decency—natch!

Col. Quinto tells Kiwanians of West Point life

"The only West Point cadet who feels disciplined is undisciplined to start with." This was an observation on the rigid discipline of West Point, made by Don Quinto, retired colonel and CV Kiwanis Club treasurer, in a talk to the club Tuesday on his career in the U.S. Army.

He described the life of a cadet at the U.S. Military Academy as "a tough life. You stand on your own two feet; nobody helps you. You make it or fall on your own."

He defended the inflexible honor code, which condemns those as equally guilty who do not turn in others they know are dishonoring the code.

CV Kiwanis Club heard Gen. Lynn Smith (ret. US Army) talk at the previous meeting on the recently inaugurated Explorer program of the Boy Scouts. He urged members of Kiwanis to volunteer time as Explorer advisors.

The Explorer program gives older boys the opportunity to learn about various specialties, such as aviation, science, finance and other business and professional lines.

The Explorer program is urgently needed, he said, because schools give little formal education in business and surveys indicate an ignorance of the workings of capitalism and the profit system.

School projects underway due to tax passage

Improvements to local school buildings and grounds as promised with passage of the recent override tax, are going full steam ahead, according to Walter Hinton, business administrator of Carmel School District.

First major project is installation of a drain system for the high school football field and encircling track. Layers of decomposed granite and cinders are being installed on top of 1,500 feet of 10-inch galvanized steel drain pipe, which will drain the water away at three different spots at both ends of the fields.

The high school track team used the MPC field this year, and usually in previous years, for its meets because of the quagmire condition of the school track.

Paving is to be repaired at the high school, which has been hazardous because of large holes. Restrooms and the music room at the high school are now being painted and the gym both inside and outside.

Tulareitos School is also being painted and shrubs are to be added in the inner court.

Carmelo, Woods, River and Captain Cooper schools are also due coats of paint. A large cement retaining wall, which caved in during the rains beside Woods School, is to be rebuilt.

Birthday cake for hospital patients

The Carmel Valley Lionettes celebrated the April birthdays of two patients at the Carmel Convalescent Hospital.

Gifts were presented on behalf of the membership by project chairman, Mrs. Theo Mirani to Valleyite Montague Williamson who was 74 on April 23 and Laura Sothers who was 92 on the 29th. Beulah Corona baked a cake for the special occasion and decorated it with musical notes and flowers.

SCHOOL IMPROVEMENTS, as promised from the recent tax override, are getting started as shown here. The high school track, usually a quagmire during rainy season, is being rebuilt on a foundation of decomposed granite and 1,500 feet of 10" galvanized steel drain pipe are being installed, with three major discharge points at both ends of the field. At right is another problem, a caved-in retaining wall and bank at Woods School, which will be rebuilt. Photo at left shows swampy track following rain.

Hugh Bayless directs Carmel ship of state with diplomacy

"After being a gypsy all my life, I knew this was it—we belonged here." This was Hugh Bayless's and Charlsie's reaction on seeing the Monterey Peninsula for the first time in 1952.

Two years before, he had been recalled as an Army lieutenant by the National Guard in the Korean conflict. When Hugh received his orders to be shipped to Korea, Charlsie decided to accompany him to California.

"We had never been to California," Bayless recalled. "We did some reading and picked the Monterey Peninsula sight unseen.

"In 1952 we drove across the country and, arriving here, we turned to each other as if to say, 'We're home'." And when he returned from Korea, he joined his wife to settle here permanently.

BORN IN CHILE

The "gypsy life" began in Iquique, Chile, where Hugh Bayless was born during World War II. His father was a mining engineer with American Smelting and Refining Co., which was mining nitrate and copper in northern Chile.

"My parents had an exciting life, vagabonding about the world," he said. "Their narrowest escape was in Mexico in 1909. Zapata was on a rampage, wiping out gringos.

"My folks hid for three days, perched up on the rafters, lying on two ironing boards, until they were rescued by Gen. Pershing's expedition."

In Chile, his father used to ride muleback to mining camps up in the Andes, which rose nearly vertically behind the town. Hugh recalled one story his father used to tell.

He was wet and cold from dripping fog through which he had climbed higher and higher on a mule into the mountains. He finally arrived nearly frozen to death at the "officina" manned by a Scotsman.

"Cold, cold place you have here," he shivered as he dismounted.

"Why man, it's a beautiful day!" the Scotsman exclaimed. "Reminds me of home in Scotland!"

But it was a rugged, primitive life, and Hugh had lost an older sister who had died from dysentery in the Chilean coastal city of Antofagasta where his parents had previously lived. "I guess they thought that if I were to survive, they had to return to the States," he said.

When he was about a year and a half old, the family moved to New York. "My father worked for Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. and did quite well." But the gypsy feeling continued, for "we moved 22 times during my first 16 years."

Hugh's college career, studying electrical engineering, was interrupted in 1940 when the National Guard unit he was in was called to active duty. He was with the Army Air Force for about five years, serving as sergeant major of a heavy bombardment squadron in Italy.

ELECTRICAL ENGINEER

He resumed studying electrical engineering, but it wasn't until after the three additional years in the Korean war that he was able to complete his degree, at Fenn College, Cleveland.

Determined to stay on the Monterey Peninsula after the Korean war, Bayless discovered that electrical engineering jobs were rare here then, and he kept busy using his other talents. He was an excellent photographer and had a few prizes to show for it, so his first job was with a camera store in Pacific Grove. He next worked for the Human Resources branch at the Presidio, participating in psychological and sensory research on projects directed by George Washington University.

In 1926 he heard about the vacancy in the city clerk's post in Carmel and, applying, was appointed by the city council. He was returned to the post by the voters in 1964. "I hope they will continue to approve me at the next election in April 1968," he said.

Another vote of confidence in Bayless's ability came about two years ago when the city council created the position of city administrator and named him to the job in addition to his city clerk duties.

"I'm something like a city manager," he explained, "but don't have a city manager's power. I have to keep things running by tact and diplomacy instead of by power, which is a better way anyway."

2 JOBS IN 1

As city clerk, Bayless is paid $600 a month. And his additional city administrator chores add another $354. With a smile, he added that his long, long hours, including a variety of evening meetings, average out to wages of $2.38 an hour.

"I've never worked harder in my life and had a more rewarding job," Bayless declared. Handling a city budget of about $500,000 and 48 city employees is big business, he added.

When he isn't up to his neck in city affairs, Bayless relaxes at home on Torres near 10th where he enjoys his hi-fi set, which he built himself. "I had to use my electrical engineering training somehow," he commented. He admits that he plays a guitar "after a fashion."

The Bayless's have two boys, Scot, 12, attending Palo Colorado School and Keith, 4, who, while a little too youthful to be a book worm, is already reading book after book.

Mrs. Bayless is a writer, and was named Monterey Peninsula Poet Laureate two years ago. She is at work on her second novel.

THROUGH CARMEL

'ON-A-BICYCLE BUILT FOR TWO'

When insurance partners Tom Brown and Jon Waycott won an award through one of their companies, it turned out to be a 26" Huffly tandem bicycle. Taking advantage of their newly-acquired vehicle, the two took a lunch-time tour of Carmel.

They took a tourist's jaunt along Carmel beach, journeyed up and down residential streets, and returned to park the tandem in front of the office... ah, such a leisurely, simple way to travel.

But happiness was short-lived as Carmel police officer Walt Boyle chugged up on his motorcycle and informed them that they were illegal. And if they tried to park the vehicle there, he'd have to give them a ticket.

So instead of solving problems, they ended up having a bigger one... now what can they do with the bike between trips... it takes up a lot of space in the office.

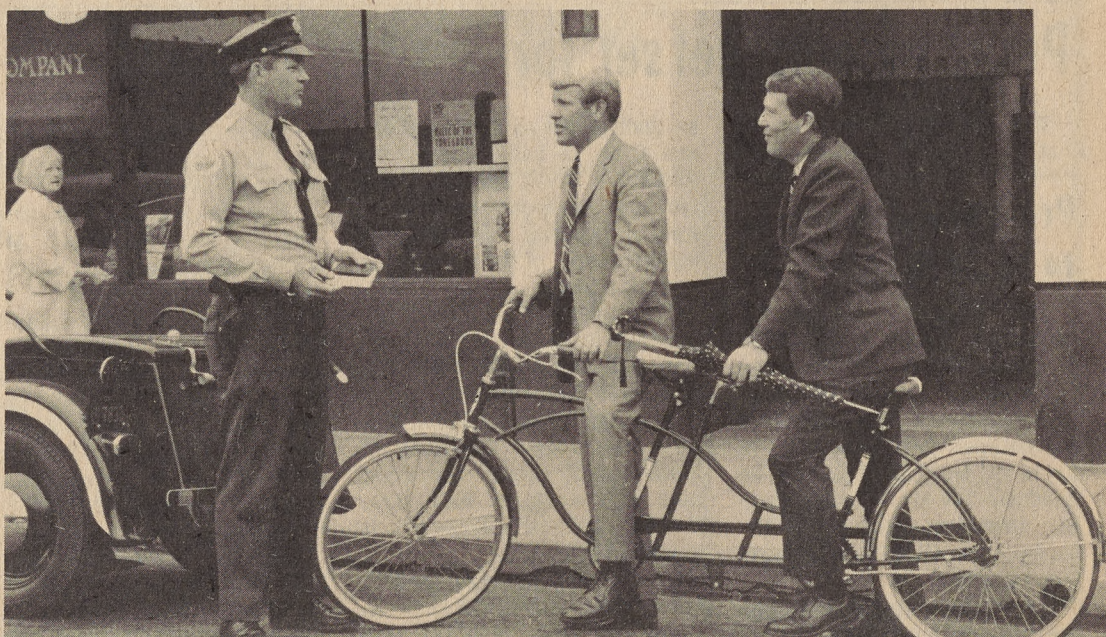

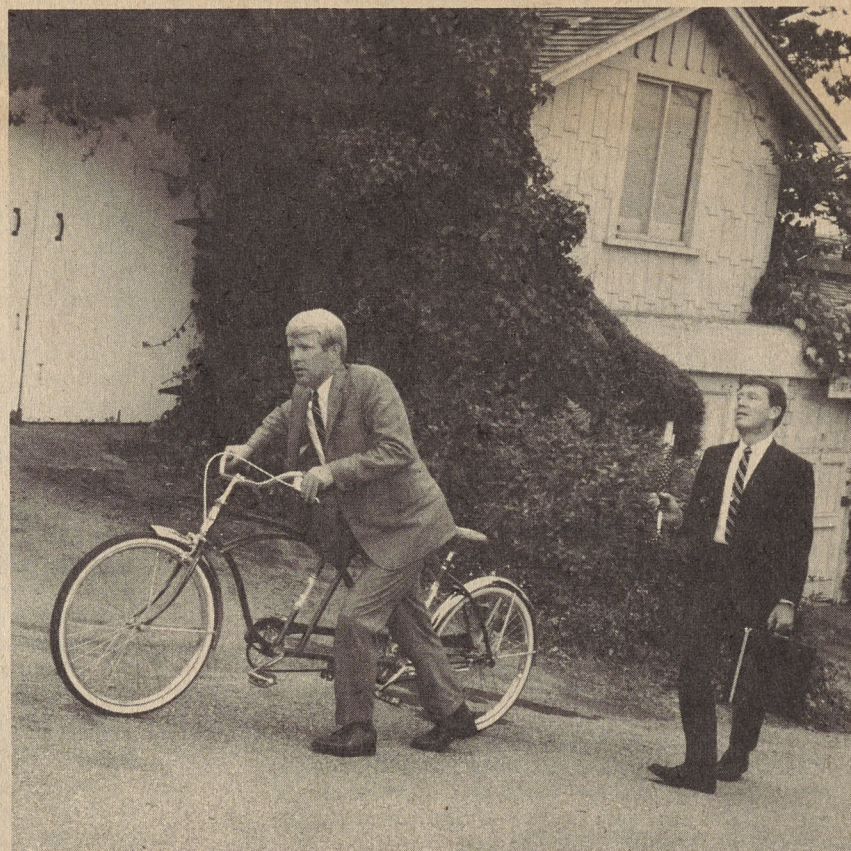

Photos by Marie Van Auken

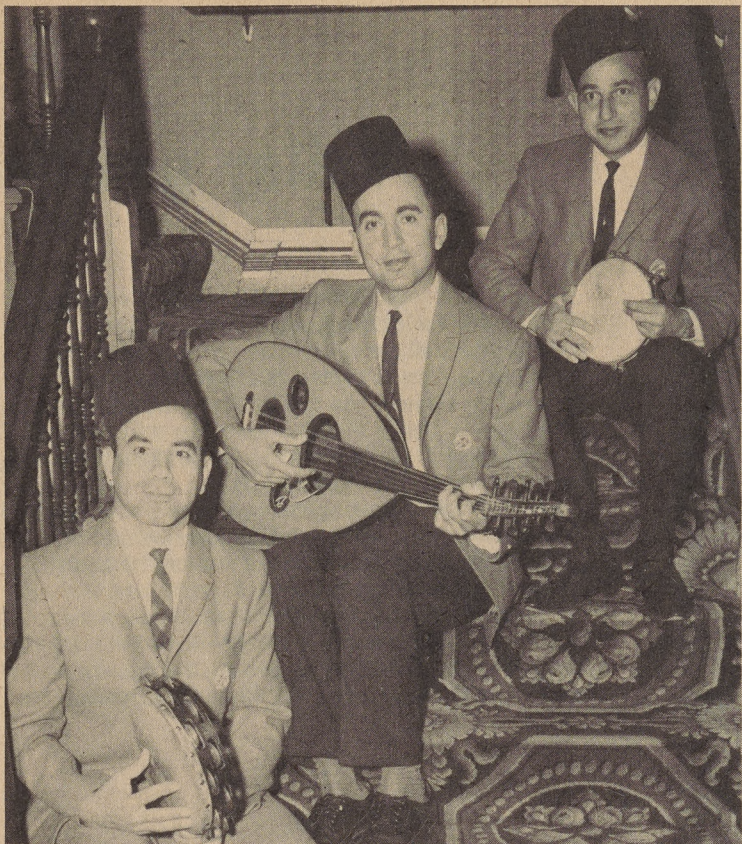

ABOVE—Wow! The beach road is really the scenic drive when there are Carmel lovelies like this out for a day at the shore. Even though several of them are his daughters, Tom Brown registers approval as he and Jon Waycott pedal past. The girls, reason enough to get out of the office for a ride, are Libby Brown, Mary Lee Beech and Anne Brown (left to right).

BELOW—In a situation like this, the one up front gets wet! Not fair for Jon, but Tom is very complacent about the whole thing.

CENTER RIGHT—Going is great on the straight-away, but, "oh, my! Those Carmel hills." The rain stopped, but Tom's still pretty complacent... he's not pushing the bike up the grade.

LOWER RIGHT—Gee, officer, a guy's got to park his bike. But not in Carmel... it's illegal and Officer Walt Boyle lost no time telling Jon and Tom about it. So their new form of transportation had to be picked up and hauled into the office to park.

JAODAT Y. YONAN, KHALIDY K. MUNIR, and director of the group NINIV Y. IBRAHIM (left to right) are members of the Arabic Combo and are also a trio of Arabic language instructors at the Defense Language Institute. The Combo will perform along with other international musical ensembles, in the International Revue at the Armed Forces Day Open House, Saturday, May 20 from 1 to 4 p.m. on the Presidio's Tin Barn stage. (US Army photo)

Joan Baez, others in Big Sur folk song fest

The Fourth Annual Big Sur Folk Festival will be presented this year on Wednesday and Thursday, June 28-29.

Two afternoon concerts, with limited ticket sales, will attempt to restore the more intimate feeling which was present in the original outdoor events.

Both concerts will begin at 2 p.m. and will be held on the cliffs of Big Sur Hot Springs.

Jazz Festival aids Symphony

Jazz gave a kindly, wealthy boost to classical music last week.

A $5,000 check was presented to the Monterey County Symphony Association by the Monterey Jazz Festival at its board meeting Tuesday.

The presentation was made by Pres. Melvin Isenberger of the Jazz Festival board.

James Glaser, Association president, and John Gosling, conductor of the Monterey County Symphony and Youth orchestras, were on hand to accept the contribution.

Joan Baez and her two sisters, Mimi Farina and Pauline Marden will be featured along with Judy Collins, Mark Spoelstra and his new folk-rock band, Al Kooper of "The Blues Project," Nancy Carlen and others.

Tickets at $3.75 for adults and $1 for children 6-12, are available at local ticket outlets or by mail from Big Sur Folk Festival, Coast Route 1.

Local photographer in English show

Photographer Ralph R. Payton of Paso Hondo, Carmel Valley, had his work hung in the 20th Camberley Salon of World Camera Art at the Royal Military Academy, Sandhurst Hall, England, during April.

Forty-three countries were represented in the show. Payton was the only representative of the United States with 2 color photos, entitled "Desert Sentinel" and "Desert Castles." He is the area representative for Central California of the National Free Lance Photographers Association.

New Monterey show

Sharing the spotlight at the New Monterey Neighborhood Center through May 24 is the work of ceramist J.L. HYSONG and micro-photography by WILLIAM PENPRAZE which he calls "An Exploration of Metals' Inner Structure."

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will make its spring visit to the Valley firehouse Thursday, May 25, between 3 and 6:30 p.m.

As usual, Mrs. Thomas McKiernon is heading the group of volunteers who will staff the drawing, and as usual, she is hoping that this time they will be able to produce the 100 pints of blood toward which they have been working so hard and so long.

At the October drawing last year 98 donors appeared, of which 96 were successful in contributing. This is an extremely high proportion of successful donors.

Anyone in good health, from 21 to 59 years of age, inclusive, is eligible to donate blood. Minors from 18 to 20 may also give, provided they have written permission from parents or guardians. Forms are available at the Carmel Red Cross, 8th and Dolores streets,

LEFT CENTER—Mrs. Paul Porter begins the preliminary examination of Gregg Scherman which is given to all prospective donors. Blood pressure, blood count, temperature and medical history are taken. If the applicant does not meet the health standards of the Red Cross his blood will not be taken at this time.

LOWER LEFT—Mrs. Marjory Haller, volunteer worker for the Red Cross, gives Bob Wilson a preliminary examination. He is working towards his second gallon donation and says that he will continue to give blood indefinitely because he has received much blood himself in the past.

and at the firehouse the day of the drawing.

Even those with a medical history of malaria or hepatitis, previously barred, may now contribute; their blood is fractionated into plasma for use by the armed forces in Vietnam.

Mrs. McKiernon reminds everyone that by giving a pint of blood, he will receive a credit card which will cover all blood needs of himself and his family, without need for replacement, for one year. If he already has acquired such a card by previous donations, he may allocate this donation on Thursday to someone unable to give, who will then receive a credit card.

Baby sitting is provided for donors and refreshments will be served by the ladies of the Volunteer Fire Department Auxiliary.

UNDER THE OAKS & AMONG THE CACTI

By Mildred Hattan

The monthly Masterpoint Tournament took place Tuesday evening with members of the Valley Bridge Club competing at the Community Center.

In North-South play, Mrs. Irene Baldwin and her partner, Mrs. Sue Stoney, were first place winners. Mrs. Arnold Bradley and Mrs. George Corrigan were in second place and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest W. Gravelle were third place winners.

First place award in East-West went to Mr. and Mrs. Michael A. Antoncich, second place to Peter Hanson and Pete Steffen, and third place to Mrs. Louis Baeriswyl and Mrs. William Moore.

A special get well message to Miss Dorothy Caton, former Valley resident, now making her home in Walnut Creek. "Cathy" became ill last week while in the Valley on business, was taken to the Community Hospital where she underwent surgery, and is now recuperating at the Harwell Dyer home on Boronda Road.

Mrs. Mildred Eastman, Cathy's mother, and Miss Bessie Irvin were guests of Irene Baldwin and Marjorie Ibsen until assured the patient had come through with flying colors and would be released soon to recover in the Valley sunshine.

The iris beds at the Clyde Hitchcock home on Merrill Way are beginning to show color. Beth and Clyde extend an invitation to anyone who admires floral beauty to drop by and view the efforts of an avid gardener.

The Hitchcock garden, originally slated for the Garden Tour, had to be withdrawn because of storm damage.

A Mother's Day surprise on Sage Road tops the list of any other gift received in the Valley. Little April Dawn Ridgley does not weigh five pounds yet, but the staff at Fort Ord Hospital released her for a Friday homecoming so that she could celebrate Sunday with her parents, Lt. and Mrs. Philip Ridgley.

The tiny little girl weighed just a pound and a half at her premature arrival, and has been the darling of the Post ever since.

Don Laird is representing the Carmel Valley Volunteer Fire Department at the State Fire Training Officers Workshop being held Monday through Friday at the Del Webb Town House in Fresno. This is the second year that Don has enrolled in the Fresno training program.

Mrs. Warren C. Higby of Middle Private Road, this week proudly announced the birth of her first granddaughter, Danielle-Marie to Mr. and Mrs. Clement M. Higby. Mr. Higby is director of research and development for California ink in Berkeley.

The maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Harry Spiher of Richmond.

Mrs. Higby attended the christening on Sunday and served as godmother for her new granddaughter.

Sodality members of Our Lady of Mount Carmel Catholic Church observed tradition Tuesday with an "End of the Year Party" at the Paso Mediano home of their prefect, Mrs. Louis Allaire.

Members surprised their Sodality chaplain, Father Juan Oronoz, by presenting him a money tree. The camellia bush will be added to the landscaping at Father Juan's home at the Carmelite Monastery while "the leaves" will undoubtedly be used on his trip to Spain. He will leave the first of June and plans a visit with his family in Mallorca.

A gift for Father James Voytko, pastor of Our Lady of Mount Carmel, was sent to Father Jim, who was unable to attend.

Davette Allaire introduced 17-year-old Newton Bowman who provided the entertainment for the party. Young Bowman who attended Pacific Grove schools, has recently returned from six months in Spain where he studied Flamenco guitar. He is presently living in Robles del Rio and looking for students. He may be contacted at 659-2344.

Mrs. Michael Antoncich presented a copy of the book, "Journey of a Soul" to Mrs. Allaire in appreciation of her year as prefect.

Mrs. Byron Platter assisted Mrs. Allaire with the refreshment hour. Members of their committee were Mmes. Al Giordano, Roger Sherman, Lou Berta, George Shepherd, William Brashears, Michael Antoncich and Maj. (ret.) Billie Mans.

Mrs. Philip Walker will be hostess for the May 24th benefit bridge and canasta party sponsored by the Auxiliary of St. Dunstan's Episcopal Church.

Anyone wishing to attend the party to be held at 17 Flight Road is invited to phone Mrs. Walker, 659-2280.

The Rev. Brock as Mr. Pick Pockets

Carmelo Family Fair is great fun for all

BY MILDRED HATTAN

Families enjoyed a fun-filled afternoon Sunday at the Carmelo Family Fair.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Gawain chairmanned the successful benefit for the Carmelo Parents Club. Among their able assistants were Ginger and Jim Brock. She did the outstanding job of publicizing the event, while he was the popular "Mr. Pick Pockets," always surrounded by a group of children.

Over three hundred persons enjoyed the "Surprise Supper" arranged by Mr. and Mrs. Doug Forzani and Mr. and Mrs. James Stewart. Response was so tremendous that when it came time to feed the carnival "roustabouts," the food was all gone! Delicious aromas wafting from the kitchen while the dinner was being prepared must have increased ticket sales tenfold.

Gloria Stewart was overheard chuckling to a friend, "Our 'Surprise Supper' is no longer a secret, EVERYBODY knows that we are serving broccoli!"

Joan and Gene Martin, Louise James and the Paul Natons assisted in setting up tables. Cindy Naton should have won an award for her flowered clown's costume with floral makeup to match.

Highlight of the entertainment was the magic show starring Ken Stewart of Santa Cruz. When the talented performer was contacted, he agreed to come if "no wet sponges were thrown at the act!" Nary a sponge was in sight as the wizard's magic powers brought forth doves, rabbits, and feats never seen before on this (or any other) planet!

As any 'good' carnival, there was an abundance of popcorn, thanks to the loan of the popcorn machine from the Little League.

While small fry were engaged in games of skill, their parents enjoyed a tour of the new library and an outstanding arts and crafts exhibit: A collection of paintings, sculpting and wood carvings from residents at the CV Manor; the beautiful and unusual fresh flowers molded in resin by school librarian Margaret Powers; and the handsome photography exhibit by her husband, Ed Powers.

A following of fans acquired at previous shows, and new ones added Sunday, enjoyed the large exhibit of photography by Eileen Dufur. Child studies, her specialty, using her grandchildren as delightful subjects, have won a number of awards, since she began studying three years ago with Al Weber at MPC.

Participating in the art show was a homecoming for Eileen, who was active in Carmelo Elementary affairs when her daughters, Gay and Pam, were enrolled in the little building across the street from the present location when Irene Hatton was principal.

Authority cites use of hypnosis in treating illness

By LESLIE M. LeCRON

(Another installment on hypnosis and its medical use, written for The Outlook by Carmel Valley resident, Leslie M. LeCron, a state certified psychologist. Author of seven books on hypnosis, he has staged 92 different symposiums on the subject for professional people, (chiefly doctors and dentists).

For many illnesses, usually classified as psychosomatic, hypnosis can be employed to advantage. These include, among many others, migraine and other chronic headaches, dermatological conditions, asthma, allergies, arthritis, painful menstruation and many other gynecological conditions, insomnia, infertility, frigidity, impotence, alcoholism, etc. Hypnosis has often been used to aid a person to stop cigarette smoking.

Treatment here, and also in neurotic conditions, is to use hypnosis to learn the underlying causes, which seldom are consciously known. With insight into causes, the condition often is remedied.

Still another valuable application is in surgery. The principles may even be employed if the surgical patient is not hypnotized, for some surgeons have learned that a patient hears even while in the deepest stages of anesthesia.

He is unconscious, but the subconscious mind does hear and will register suggestions given at that time. Post-operative complications such as nausea, urine retention, and others can be avoided by use of suggestion given either under hypnosis or during surgery while under anesthesia.

Many dentists have learned the applications of hypnosis. While it might be thought that its main use in dentistry would be for the production of anesthesia, that is only a minor use.

It is true that a hypnotized person can learn to shut off the sensation of pain, but it is easy to use drugs for this purpose, unless they are contraindicated, such as when there is a heart condition present or if the patient is allergic to the anesthetic drugs.

The main dental use is to make the patient more comfortable and to relieve fears and apprehensions.

Hypnosis produces an extraordinary degree of relaxation. When one is relaxed, the pain threshold rises and pain is not as severe.

The dental patient under hypnosis is hardly aware of the insertion of the hypodermic needle. If pain is felt, it doesn't seem to bother him.

Dentists dealing with children who are frightened, find hypnosis of the greatest benefit. Children almost invariably are very good subjects and their fears can be controlled and the dental work completed with no difficulty.

There are many other dental applications, such as the control of any gagging tendency, and in the fitting of dentures.

Hypnosis has been used very successfully in the control of weight and with a better knowledge of why we overeat or are overweight, weight control is easily maintained after the excess poundage is lost.

There are many other beneficial applications of hypnosis, far too many to even be mentioned in such a short article.

With the official ceremonies of the Mid-Valley branch of the Crocker-Citizens National Bank behind them, a group of officials who had contributed to the success of the day gathered for a dinner dance Saturday night at Lou's Casa Carmela. Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Weer (she is manager of the new bank) were in charge of arrangements for the evening.

Guests attending were Mr. and Mrs. Albert Donavan, Mr. and Mrs. John Bambury, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lo Forti, and Mrs. and Mrs. Forest Dunlap (all representatives of the San Francisco office), Dr. and Mrs. Fletcher Conn (Mrs. Weer's sister and brother-in-law who were guests from Klamath Falls, Ore.), Mr. and Mrs. Larry Lushbaugh of San Juan Bautista, Mr. and Mrs. Charles McEwen of Carmel, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Johnson (he is the manager of Monterey's Crocker-Citizens branch) and Mr. and Mrs. Glen Kearns of Carmel. Mr. and Mrs. Kearns are owners of the new restaurant opening soon in the Mid-Valley shopping center.

Mrs. Weer served as mistress of ceremonies for the opening earlier in the day. She introduced as guest speakers Willard Branson, Monterey County Supervisor, Norman Craft, one of the developers of the Mid-Valley shopping center, and Mr. Charles Neumann, Senior vice president of the San Francisco administrative headquarters.

Greeting the many guests who toured the Valley's newest were Mrs. Charles McEwen and Mrs. Jacob May. Serving punch were two representatives from the Carmel branch, Lyn Bugers and Ann Hollingsworth.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Cross of 23 Via Contenta who welcomed a son May 2 at the Community Hospital. The baby, who weighed 7 lbs. 5 oz., has been named Glen Allen. The middle name is in honor of his father's cousin. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Oross of Chicago and Mr. Walter Gobush of Joliet, Ill. Glen's very proud big sister celebrated her sixth birthday on Mother's Day.

Rascha and Harry Gillette welcomed some very distinguished visitors last week at Rancho del Monte Resort when Gov. and Mrs. Carlos Lacerda and their daughter paid the Valley a visit. Presently governor of Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, and rumored to be the next in line for the presidency, Gov. Lacerda was touring our country to obtain information on the growing of turkeys for his country. The Lacerdas were guests of honor at a cocktail party in Monterey.

Guests at the Country Club Way home of Mr. and Mrs. John Power during "Garden Tour Weekend" were Mr. and Mrs. George F. Hodgins of Burlingame.

The guests good naturedly pitched in to fulfill their honorary Garden Club memberships by helping to distribute tour tickets to garden outposts and direct traffic at Rancho del Monte.

Glimpses of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Naugle on the Garden Tour seemed only natural for although they now call Sun City home, they remain two of the CV Garden Club's strongest supporters. Pete is past president of the organization as well as the Community Center and headed numerous other civic projects.

They made their headquarters at Los Laureles Lodge while visiting with the Lin Dickies, the Oscar Durhams, and many other Valley friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Danielson enjoyed a week's visit recently from Milda's brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Weiland and son, "K.T.," whose home is in Neosho Falls, Kan.

The Weilands, former Valley residents, gave "K.T." a complete guided tour of his hometown including the old Community Hospital, now the Carmel Convalescent Hospital, where his birth and subsequent stay as an incubator baby caused Peninsula-wide interest.

The family's western expedition was planned to precede "K.T.'s" enlistment in the Army Air Corps where he is now in basic jet training at a base in Texas.

Carmel girls are duet swim champions

JUDY SNYDER (left) and Bonnie Banker were the proud winners of gold medals and the title of Outdoor Duet Champions at the AAU meet at San Jose last Sunday.

Outlook SPORTS

Carmel High winding up season

BASEBALL — Carmel High varsity baseball squad split its games last week, trouncing San Lorenzo 8-4, but dropping the King City game 9-4.

The Padre JV's went down before Gonzales 7-5 and lost a tough one 3-0 to King City.

TRACK — Carmel varsity track men placed 5th in the MTAL finals at Pacific Grove Saturday and the Padre lightweights were 4th. Carmel stars were Gary Kelley who was first in discus with a 145-foot throw and Kim Schaurer who broke the league two-mile record in

SWIMMING — Carmel High's diving star, freshman Bob Horn, placed 10th in the Central Coast Swimming finals at Foothill College, Los Altos Hills, last weekend. Coach James Agan praised Horn's performance and said the competition was the stiffest he had ever seen at that level.

GOLF — Carmel was 3rd in MTAL championships Saturday at Corral de Tierra Country Club, scoring 362 behind Gilroy's 351 and P.G.'s winning 328.

Gold medals and the new title of Outdoor Duet Champions were bestowed on Cypress Swim Club's Bonnie Banker and Judy Snyder last weekend at the 1967 Pacific AAU Outdoor Novice Synchronized Swimming Championships.

The girls, who were the club's only entry in the meet, defeated their nearest rivals, the favored San Francisco Merionettes, by almost six points.

In addition, Judy won the second place ribbon, and Bonnie, the third, in stunt competition, from a field of 102 entries.

In the routines competition, the girls won high awards from the judges and a standing ovation from the crowd for their performance of "Shades of the Roaring 20's."

Judy, an honor student at Carmel High, is the 15-year-old daughter of Mrs. Winifred Snyder of Carmel.

Bonnie is an honor student at Middle School and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Banker of Carmel Knolls.

Following tradition, they gave their coach and manager, Donn Squire and Del Neel, the fully-clothed dunking

Carmel Swim Club in AAU; practice at Carmel and CV

The Carmel Swim Club (formerly the Barracudas) will be an AAU team this year instead of just in the recreational league. The Tri-County League voted to go AAU and Carmel agreed to join.

Practice began yesterday at the Carmel High School pool and will be on a year-round basis instead of limited to summertime. When the Valley pool opens practices will be held there every day as well.

Bruce Williams is coach of the team and Mike Largent will probably coach the Valley practice. At the close of classes there will be 12 noon sessions for youngsters 12 years and under and 4 p.m. sessions for those 13 through 17.

There will be both an A and B program and Williams hopes to have swimmers who have not swum competitively before.

The first meet will be the Junior Olympics at Mountain View on June 3 and 4. July 1, Santa Cruz will swim at Carmel, July 8 finds Morgan Hill at Carmel, July 15 Carmel travels to Gilroy and July 22 Carmel swims at Watsonville.

Open diving meets will be held at Watsonville on July 7, at Morgan Hill on July 14 and at Seaside High School on July 20.

Interested swimmers may contact the CUSD recreation department (624-3342)

KEVAN STRATHMEYER takes a jump at last year's Pebble Beach Pony Club Show. Her horse, "You Asked for It," is fondly known as "Popcorn." Kevan is one of a half dozen Valley youngsters who participated in Pony Club training every Saturday.

Pony Club show at Pebble Beach

The Pebble Beach Pony Club Horse Show will be held next Sunday, May 21. At present there are well over 125 entries for the traditional show. Events begin at 9 a.m. and continue until 5 p.m.

Friends and guests are invited to attend and admission is free. Food and drinks will be available.

The one-day event is managed by the parents of Pony Club members. Funds raised will be used to send teams to the Regional Rally held in mid-summer in Fresno.

There are two "A Riders" among the local members of the Pony Club. Bill Bradley is one of only 11 boys in the United States to have this rating, and Leslie Woods is one of 54 girls. Out of the 156 Pony Clubs in the country, only 36 are represented with "A Riders."

Red Sox lead Little League; farm teams open the season

The Red Sox, unbeaten to date, took possession of first place Saturday by blanking the Tigers 5-0 on six hits. Tuesday the Red Sox had humbled the Giants 10-1.

Pitcher Mike Feeney uncorked the first no-hitter of the season in the new Casey Park. He and Ted Hall collected back-to-back doubles in the fifth.

Catcher Rod Deas survived a collision at home plate, but had to be taken out when hit on the head by a retrieved ball inadvertently thrown in.

The Volunteers beat the Tigers 10-5 Thursday and assured themselves of second place in the standing by slaughtering the Giants 25-7 Saturday. The Giants play the Tigers, Tuesday, and the Red Sox face the Volunteers Thursday.

Saturday's doubleheader pits the Volunteers against the Giants and the Tigers will try to stop the Red Sox.

FARM TEAMS

The Farm Teams opened their season Saturday morning at Casey Park before a good crowd. The Indians beat the Pirates 12-6 and the White Sox bested the Cubs 15-9.

Monday, the Pirates are hosts to the White Sox, and Wednesday, the Cubs take on the Indians.

All four teams see action in Saturday's doubleheader at Casey Park starting at 9 a.m.
